THE GREAT DROUGHT

Growing More Serious With Each Succeeding Day.

FARNERS ALMOST IN DESPAIR.

Discussing the Necessity of Reducing Their Stocks-A Susiness Manta Suggestion-Skip Surplus Stock West.

It looked Wednesday as if showers night break the terrible drought which is parching all vegetation in this section out the clouds drifted away and no rait fell in this county but more favored localities, notably Long Island, were pleased with copious showers. Each day that the drought continues nakes the situation much more critical or farmers and many of them are in despair. Some of them try to find encourigement in recullnig seasons when severe lroughts in May and June were followed by such copious rains that the hay crop was pieced out by the abundance of the second growth or by the forage crops hat were raised, but many farmers are populess and are wondering what they sill be able to do with their stock with ut pasture and without hay.

If the drought continues and bad matters become so much worse that it is necessary for furmers to reduce their stocks, a business man of this city suggests that, instead of sacrificing their cows by trying to sell them here, they should club together, secure cars and ship them west. That section has been favored with abundant rains and prices of cattle there are high, and the market could easily take Orange county's sur plus stock.

There is no doubt that favorable rates, all conveniences and every possible conession would be made to the farmers by be officers of the Eric and O. and W. roads. They are broad-sighted enough to see that the interests of their roads are bound up in those of the sections. through which they run and if the drought calamity should make it necessary for farmers to sell part of their herds, motives of self-interest as well as willing and anxious to do all in their power to help them out of their troubles,

The situation is not, however, absolutely hopeless. If rain is not too long delayed, there may be a good growth of rusture, the hay crop may be preced out by the second growth and enough forage rops may be raised to carry cattle through next winter.

SUGAR KING SPEAKS

FELS & CO., Makers,

Havemeyer Says Trusts Re sult From Tariff.

NO GOVERNMENT PROTECTION NEEDED

He Claims Hecent Protective Meas ures Have Occasioned the Formstion of All the Large Combines. Does Not Care For Ethles.

WASHINGTON, June 15,-Before the industrial commission in its investigation of trusts there appeared yesterday Mr. II. O. Havemeyer, president of the Amer-ican Sugar Retining company. His testinony related almost wholly to the sugar industry, and he opened with a lengthy written statement which vigorously attacked the customs tariff, which he declared was the "mother of all trusts." The existing bill and the preceding one have been the occasion of the formation of all the large trusts, with very few exceptions, inasmuch as they provide for an inordinate protection to all the interests of the country, sagar refining excepted. Economic advantages incident to the consolidation of large interests in the same line of business are a great incentive to their formation, but these bear vantages granted in the way of protection under the customs tariff. "There probably is not an industry 10 per cent ad valorem, and it is to obtain what is provided over such per-centage in the tariff that leads to the formation of what are commonly spoken of as 'trusts.' "

Mr. Havemeyer's statement aroused great interest, and the next three hours were devoted to answering questions asked him in rapid succession by members of the commission. He at first declined to state whether the company was making money at present, saying that was the business of the company alone, but he afterward made an incidental statement which the commission construed into an admission that the business was not profitable now. The witness confessed that his company had very little regard for the welfare of rivals in business, saying that prestige, ability, experience and wealth would win in the long run in the struggle and that trusts were an example of the survival of the fittest in business. "That is trade," he said, "and the seen-you realize it and quit trying to control it by folieral legislation the hetter for alico case, and who was also encumbered all. A man cannot expect to have himself continually wet nursed by the govsen commany wet ansen by the government. If men do not want to buy our stocks, they needn't. They do not need government protection. If they wade in and get stick, let them get out and if they wish to wade in again. The fate or rival concerps is their affair, not ours." Speaking of the "ethies of life," sugrested by a member of the commission Mr. Havemeyer said: "I don't care 2 cents for your ethics. I know nothing about them, I am talking about busi-

Mr. Havemeyer said that many things vere done in business which looked cold brooded and barsh, but that business conditions often required conduct justifying such characterization. The farmers, he thought, ought to establish a trust for their protection. He closed with a protest against what he called the tariff discriminations against sugar, reiterating that it was due entirely to the feeling against combinations in business. profit at the expense of the individual,

President Kruger, in thankng the raad, said that in these troublons times they could not know what was going to happen. England had not made even one little concession, and he could not give more. He reminded the rand that God had always stood by them. War, he asserted, he did not want, but he would not relinquish anything more. WILD PIGEONS.

Cor. Cortland, Though They Have Disappeared from the East They Are Plenty in Oregon, From The Portland Oregonian,

The only kind of game birds which the markets now afford is wild pigeons. and it may be added that wild pigeons are about the only kind of upland game birds the markets are likely to afford for the next three years, as the sale of phen sants, grouse, quailete., is forbidden for that time. The pigeons are coming m quite irrely from the southern part of the valley, and appear to be growing more plentiful year by year, People are now eating pigeous who never ato them before, and are beginning to acquire a taste for them. They are plump and lat, and although the meat is dark they are said to make a very published stew, and the young ones answer for broiling or making pigeon pie. The birds are of the same variety that used to be so numerous in the Western and Eastern States in the early history of the country when they were killed by the wagon load, and when they used to break down the trees they roosted on. break down the trees they roosted on They came here from Southern California or Mexico, where they spend the winter, and at present appear to be gleaning their living from the grain fields as the crops of those received here are filled with wheat principally. The farmers shoot them to protect their grain fields and people eat them for variety. There is likely to be little enough of this game
